

Junior Aircraft Technician (recruitment reserve)

POSITION:

For the daily maintenance of the TUI fly fleet, Tec4Jets is looking for a Junior Aircraft Technician. You will rely on a various and challenging range of duties to which you are responsible together with an enthusiastic team of technicians.

In an international corporate culture, where diversity plays a key role, you assist our Licensed Engineers in all maintenance and repair tasks to the required standards both in quality, professionalism and cleanliness in order to provide TUI fly with on-time, serviceable aircraft to meet the flying program.

Your job includes different tasks and responsibilities, such as:

You assist the Licensed Engineers in the execution of aircraft maintenance activities during line maintenance interventions and aircraft hangar visits.

You will participate a variety of activities going from training practices, aircraft cleaning, inspections, functional checks, modifications, repairs, etc.

You ensure that all tasks are performed in accordance with the applicable regulations, engineering procedures and approved technical documentation.

You maintain tooling, equipment and facilities given at your disposition to the highest standard in accordance with EASA, Health and Safety, and human factors regulations.

PROFILE:

You obtained a secondary or higher degree in aircraft maintenance, electro-mechanics, or similar.

You have a first experience in a similar job or a relevant internship.

You are willing to work in shifts (day/night) including weekends and bank holidays.

You are willing to travel to other countries for missions or training as needed.

You are able to concentrate for a long time and do your work with an eye for detail and focused on avoiding mistakes.

You know how to work under pressure and you act on a flexible way in different situations.

You have excellent communication skills in English, both spoken and written and operational communication skills in Dutch and/or French.

OFFER:

Tec4Jets offers you a varied and fascinating job in a young and dynamic company, where the feeling of being on holiday never disappears. You find yourself in an enthusiastic team and a modern and pleasant work environment. We offer you a full time contract of indefinite duration and a competitive salary with extra-legal advantages, including training possibilities. We will contact you as soon as our selections start.

Apply? Send a mail as soon as possible: Whitney_Goyvaerts@tuifly.be